Everyone was annoyed but this was the second out of ten days of the assessments. But, some of them had hope for the day and a lot more of us would after a period one because we didn't have maths for the rest of the week. There are a bunch of us who have a little celebration to go to after school which is hosted by the nicest member of staff Mrs Dalton. Yet, the members of the Harry Potter Book Club (which happens to be what the celebration is for) still have to deal with the people they hate for the rest of the day. For example, Thomas and I hate Lexie, Joel, Jasmine and many more.

There are many small and big details about the club, such as the club is normally on a Thursday, but the celebration is today as Mrs Dalton wouldn't be in on Thursday. Some of us found that off, others found it unquestionable but I am thinking that this had a purpose. This was one of the many signs that something would have an impact on us, especially for the future. This could be linked to what happened last week.

Today was Dungeons and Dragons Club and we were just in the upside-down world with no obstacles because Ryan wasn't there. But when Ryan came to the library for this week's club, Thomas's face went desensitised like he was going to kill. His face had no feelings look when he saw others, yes there was an awkward smile to some people but other times it was just numb. Before Ryan could take any more steps forward, Thomas started yelling repulsive comments that were unimaginable. It was making everyone's ears bleed. All besides mine. I had heard worse. When Thomas was yelling, he sounded like he was on the brink of insanity. Thomas started beating Ryan up, then once he pulled out his scissors and started stabbing him in front of us. Ryan's blood was going everywhere. We were all watching this. Everyone's face was shocked and in fear. I just found it like a normal horror movie.

Thomas turned around with Ryan's blood all over him (it looked like there was 3 pints was on him, 4 pints on the floor). Everyone's reaction was to faint. Well, everyone but Thomas and I. I was about to say something but Connor stated that we had to hide the body and clean up the blood. We all had to vote whether to hide the body or frame somebody. We were all in this together, and we knew Thomas could turn on any of us. Nobody was safe. We let the ones who were close to fainting have a couple minutes to catch their breath. The others were given jobs to cover up the crime.

We all agreed to frame somebody. Or, should I say, two people. We agreed to frame a member of staff and Jess. We would place the body their room. Well, Thomas and Connor would place the body in that room and I would be in charge of cleaning up the blood. Everyone else was trying to remove the image of Ryan screaming for help. I think. It came near to the end the club and we needed to look non-guilty. Thomas and I could keep our faces straight, the others however couldn't. They needed more time, especially Jack so, we needed a cover story. We were going to use an actual crime story.

It's been two days since the first day of the series of unfortunate events. I think? I am really unsure now. All the days seem to blur into one. Connor told Megan about what happened. I know that now she knows, but her and Connor must die. We can't risk it getting out. I don't know who else we can trust now. I have to tell Thomas about what Connor did and I also have to tell Jack. But, when I tell them, I won't tell them about the plan I have for murder.

Connor told me that he would be going to the Zoo with one of his friends. So, he just handed me a ticket to off him with a "natural cause". I came up with the idea of letting out a highly dangerous animal. I haven't seen the people we framed for awhile. let's hope that the police fell for the planted evidence. Maybe, when Thomas and Connor placed Ryan's lifeless body in one of the classrooms, they gathered enough evidence to blame the two of them.

Today was the day. Today Connor would be going to the Zoo with Megan. I had to change up my plan a little because instead of just killing Connor, I had to kill Megan too. She knew too much. It'd be too risky to let them both live. I wanted to kill Connor by a Black Mamba so, it had a very little chance of getting Megan too. They wouldn't be getting killed if they could just keep their mouths shut. The last thing I needed was people to catch on to this act.

The plan was set into motion. I brought a poisoned chocolate bar just in case the plan went slow. If I placed the chocolate in Megan's bag, hopefully she would think that she put it in there before hand. If Megan ate the chocolate at the exact time, hopefully everyone in the reptile house would be distracted trying to help her and it would be the perfect time to release the Black Mamba.
